The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, operating a campus in California is a private institution and it is approved to operate by the California Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education (the "Bureau"). The Bureau's website can be found at www.bppe.ca.gov. The Wharton School's approval to operate as a private postsecondary school in the State of California is based on provisions of the California Private Postsecondary Education Act (CPPEA) of 2009, which was effective January 1, 2010. The Act is administered by the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education, under the Department of Consumer Affairs.

NOTICE CONCERNING TRANSFERABILITY OF CREDITS AND CREDENTIALS EARNED AT OUR INSTITUTION

The transferability of credits you earn in the MBA Program for Executives at The Wharton School is at the complete discretion of the institution to which you may seek to transfer. Acceptance of the degree, diploma, or certificate you earn in Masters of Business Administration is also at the complete discretion of the institution to which you may seek to transfer. If the credits, degree, diploma, or certificate that you earn at this institution are not accepted at the institution to which you seek to transfer, you may be required to repeat some or all of your coursework at that institution. For this reason, you should make certain that your attendance at this institution will meet your educational goals. This may include contacting an institution to which you may seek to transfer after attending The Wharton School to determine if your credits or degree, diploma, or certificate will transfer.

NOTICE CONCERNING STUDENT TUITION RECOVERY FUND

"The State of California established the Student Tuition Recovery Fund (STRF) to relieve or mitigate economic loss suffered by a student in an educational program at a qualifying institution, who is or was a California resident while enrolled, or was enrolled in a residency program, if the student enrolled in the institution, prepaid tuition, and suffered an economic loss.

You are not eligible for protection from the STRF if you are not a California resident or are not enrolled in a residency program."

It is important that you keep copies of your enrollment agreement, financial aid documents, receipts, or any other information that documents the amount paid to the school. Questions regarding the STRF may be directed to the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education, 1747 North Market, Suite 225 Sacramento, CA 95834, (916) 431-6959 or (888) 370-7589.

To be eligible for STRF, you must be a California resident or are enrolled in a residency program, prepaid tuition, and suffered an economic loss as a result of any of the following:

1. The institution, a location of the institution, or an educational program offered by the institution was closed or discontinued, and you did not choose to participate in a teach-out plan approved by the Bureau or did not complete a chosen teach-out plan approved by the Bureau.
2. You were enrolled at an institution or a location of the institution within 120 days before the closure of the institution or location of the institution or were enrolled in an educational program within the 120-day period before the program was discontinued.
3. You were enrolled at an institution or a location of the institution more than 120 days before the closure of the institution or location of the institution, in an educational program offered by the institution as to which the Bureau determined there was a significant decline in the quality or value of the program more than 120 days before closure.
4. The institution has been ordered to pay a refund by the Bureau but has failed to do so.
5. The institution has failed to pay or reimburse loan proceeds under a federal student loan program as required by law or has failed to pay or reimburse proceeds received by the institution in excess of tuition and other costs.
6. You have been awarded restitution, a refund, or other monetary award by an arbitrator or court, based on a violation of this chapter by an institution or representative of an institution, but have been unable to collect the award from the institution.
7. You sought legal counsel that resulted in the cancellation of one or more of your student loans and have an invoice for services rendered and evidence of the cancellation of the student loan or loans.

To qualify for STRF reimbursement, the application must be received within four (4) years from the date of the action or event that made the student eligible for recovery from STRF.

A student whose loan is revived by a loan holder or debt collector after a period of non-collection may, at any time, file a written application for recovery from STRF for the debt that would have otherwise been eligible for recovery. If it has been more than four (4) years since the action or event that made the student eligible, the student must have filed a written application for recovery within the original four (4) year period, unless the period has been extended by another act of law.

However, no claim can be paid to any student without a social security number or a taxpayer identification number.”

ADDITIONAL NOTICES

Any questions a student may have regarding this catalogue that have not been satisfactorily answered by the institution may be directed to the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education at 1747 N. Market Blvd. Ste 225 Sacramento, CA 95834 or P.O. Box 980818, West Sacramento, CA 95798-0818, www.bppe.ca.gov, (888) 370-7589 or by fax (916) 263-1897.

A student or any member of the public may file a complaint about this institution with the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education by calling (888) 370-7589 or by completing a complaint form, which can be obtained on the bureau’s internet Web site www.bppe.ca.gov.

The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania does not have a pending petition in bankruptcy, is not operating as a debtor in possession, has not filed a petition within the preceding five years, and has not had a petition in bankruptcy filed against it within the preceding five years that resulted in reorganization under Chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code (11 U.S.C. Sec. 1101 et seq.).

Entrance Requirements

Entrance into the Wharton School's MBA Program for Executives requires that prospective students complete an application, submit two online letters of recommendation, answer three essay questions, send official transcripts, and pay an application fee of $200, take the GMAT, GRE, or EA (no more than five years old), possess a bachelor's degree, have a virtual interview with an admissions team member, and maintain full-time employment throughout the program. The prospective student must secure sponsorship from their organization for time away from work to attend classes as described by the class calendar and may also have financial sponsorship as well. Traditional candidates should have 8+ years of full-time work experience; less experienced candidates may be considered under Fellows candidate status. (For more details on Fellows candidate requirements, please see: <https://executivemba.wharton.upenn.edu/admissions/application-process/sponsorship-requirements/>) Each person is accepted based on the admissions committee's decision that the individual has the potential for success in the program.

We would like our students to have the four core competencies in English (reading, writing, speaking, and listening). All our courses are conducted in English. All applicants whose native language (language first learned and spoken at home) is not English, or who did not complete a degree from an institution where English was the language of instruction, are required to take the TOEFL, PTE, or IELTS. If you earned a bachelor's or master's degree from an institution at which English is the language of instruction, the test may be waived. Because The MBA Program for Executives is a cohort-based program, no transfer credit is accepted. There are no transfer credit agreements with any other institution.

Instructional Facility and Access to Library Resources

The school's physical address is 2 Harrison Street, Sixth Floor, San Francisco, California 94105. The campus consists of 34,700 square feet of classrooms, offices, and conference-room-style study rooms on one floor. There are 18 conference-room-style group study rooms, one conference room, three classrooms, nine administrative offices, six faculty offices, and 15 administrative desk spaces. Four restrooms are in the middle and rear of campus, and there is a dining room on the premises. Student-utilized spaces contain teaching equipment sufficient to meet educational needs. The maximum capacity of each type of student-utilized space is as follows:

- Classroom 615 – 65
- Classroom 612 – 65
- Classroom 660 – 148
- Dean's Conference Room – 14
- Group Study Room – 6
- Dining Room – 159

Students of the MBA Program for Executives live and work beyond the University environment. Student access to library resources is available through electronic services, database access, and support of business school librarians and in person when on the Philadelphia campus. Physical presence on the University of Pennsylvania campus is not required to access materials.

The Lippincott Library of the Wharton School

West Wing

Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center

www.library.upenn.edu/lippincott

The Lippincott Library of the Wharton School is the business research library serving Wharton and the University of Pennsylvania community. Located in the Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center, Lippincott features: state-of-the-art electronic resources for both on-site and remote use — over 100 business databases, with access to data, journals, news sources, analyst reports, and more; reference and research consultation services, and specialized research training sessions. Lippincott Library is an invaluable resource for those preparing research projects, class presentations, entrepreneurial projects, and job searches.

The Facility

Lippincott Library is housed on the second and third floors of the west wing of the Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center. The Safra Business Research Center, located on the second floor, provides a beautifully designed environment for general study and using the Library's electronic resources. The Yablon Financial Resources Lab is a 16-seat classroom with Bloomberg and S&P Capital IQ terminals, an ideal space for working on finance projects.

Libraries at Penn

The University Library that Benjamin Franklin founded — one of the first in the country — is the only Penn institution to have been in continuous operation since 1750. Today, Penn Libraries consist of fourteen libraries, each designed to serve the knowledge and information needs of Penn's schools and research centers.

General Career Management Resources

During your two-year program, a variety of professional career development programs will be available to you. Wharton's MBA for Executives Career Services include skill development, such as networking, social media, and industry and company research, as well as panel and speaker presentations covering various topics relevant to today's marketplace and student interests. The program does not have job placement services. Our general career management services begin in your second term and include:

- Career assessment and planning
- Individualized career coaching and advising
- Online career resources available 24/7
- Resume review
- Interview preparation
- Planning long-term career strategies
- The Wharton Job Board (for non-sponsored students)
- Job search action groups and resources

Policies

Enrollment Policy

Students may enroll in the program based on offer of admission no later than one week prior to Orientation Week of the newly admitted cohort.

Credit Evaluation Policy

Waiving A Course

Most of the first year is spent building skills in the core business areas of accounting, management, marketing, finance, etc. Some students already have deep and recent knowledge in one or more of these disciplines through prior coursework or experience on the job. Students who have expertise in a core course area should consider waiving the relevant course if permitted by the instructor. Students who waive will have the option to conduct an Independent Study project or take a second-year elective in lieu of the waived course. Students who waive a core course are the only first-year students permitted to take electives with the second-year class. Such a substitution is subject to approval by the elective instructor, as well as your program office. To be eligible, the student must satisfy all prerequisites for the elective class and must be able to attend all classes on the second-year schedule.

There are two ways to waive core classes:

1. Waive by credential

- Students may waive by credential if permitted by the academic department and if evidence can be provided of significant recent (within the last three years) coursework, or coursework with ongoing experience in the discipline. For example, CPAs should probably waive the Financial Accounting course offered in the summer term. If you have an undergraduate degree with a major in accounting, with grades of B or better in all introductory or intermediate financial accounting courses at an accredited college or university (not tax, auditing, advanced financial or managerial or cost accounting) you are also eligible to waive by credential.

2. Waiver exams

- If you cannot waive a course by credential but feel that taking the course would be redundant, we suggest that you request the waiver exam, if one is offered. Contact your program office to confirm this. Waiver exams must be taken before the class you are attempting to waive begins.

There is no charge to the student to take a waiver exam or to waive a course.

Students who successfully waive any core course must still complete 19 units of credit in the Wharton MBA Program for Executives. Those students complete other elective courses of interest during the program to meet the degree requirements. The student does not earn Wharton credit for the previous coursework or experience. Because the MBA Program for Executives is a cohort-based program, no transfer credit is accepted.

Attendance Policy

Learning is a collaborative process. MBA Program for Executives students are admitted in part because of the experiences they bring to the community and what they can add to class discussions. As such, attendance is an important aspect of the Wharton commitment and classroom attendance is mandatory. In addition, late arrival is disruptive to the learning environment, so punctuality is expected. If a student misses more than two days in any one term, he/she will be placed on administrative watch and may be subject to suspension from the Program for that term. If a student misses a class, it is his/her responsibility to contact the MBA Program for Executives office and faculty prior to that absence and to follow up directly with faculty to cover any missed assignments. If for a medical or family emergency you must unexpectedly miss class, a video recording of classes can be arranged (contact your program office) with the professors' approval. It is not an option for you to take classes remotely. Student class participation is an important part of the learning process and being present in class is a necessary component to that participation.

Faculty are the final arbiters of who enters and remains in their classes. If a student's presence has become disruptive to the class, the instructor can request that the MBA Program for Executives Program Office remove the student from the course roster. Some faculty may also require the student's attendance in a minimum number of sessions to remain enrolled in the course. It is the student's responsibility to find out in advance if the course has such a requirement. Most professors choose to base part of your course grade on attendance or participation and have a limit on the number of classes you may miss. If you find it necessary to miss a class or turn in written work late because of illness or a family emergency, you should speak with the instructor.

Students may not miss any time in an on-campus course to attend a course held off-campus, including Global Modular Courses and Domestic Modular courses. This may limit a student's ability to enroll in these global courses depending on the academic calendar for their class.

Grading Policy

1. Wharton's MBA courses are graded on a traditional letter grade system of A through F, with + and – distinctions. The letter grades carry the usual point values A=4, B=3, C=2, D=1, F=0. The +'s and –'s trisect the interval between full letter grades; i.e., a '+' grade will be 0.33 above the full grade value and a '–' grade 0.33 below. A+'s are allowed but still carry a 4.0 point value, a University of Pennsylvania policy.
2. For MBA classes with an MBA enrollment of 20 or more at the conclusion of the course, the class MBA Grade Point Average (CMGPA) may not exceed 3.50. This upper limit CMGPA is raised by 0.04 for every enrollment count below 20. CMGPA is defined as the average point value of the grades assigned to all MBA students in a class who are governed by this grading system.
3. While the grades A+ through D- are relative performance indicators (i.e., they depend on how other students in the class perform), the F grade is based on an absolute performance standard in every course.
4. The F grade does not earn credit toward graduation. Students who receive an F in a core course are required to re-enroll in the course and obtain a passing grade in order to graduate unless an alternate remedy is deemed appropriate by the instructor. The courses in which students receive F grades are counted toward the maximum course load for tuition purposes and F grades remain on the transcript.
5. Incompletes: Grades of Incomplete are given at the discretion of the instructor when, on the basis of work completed, the student is doing passing work, but some requirement of the course (e.g., exam or paper) is not completed. All Incomplete grades not removed from a student's record by the end of the first four weeks in the following regular semester shall be converted automatically to F. For example, a grade of Incomplete earned in the spring semester must be removed by the end of the fourth week of the following fall semester. Grades of Incomplete are changed to permanent grades by the instructor, who submits a change-of-grade upon completion of course requirements. Any Incomplete grade automatically converted to F will be presumed to be an F earned in the semester the student was registered for the course. This could cause a student to be retroactively placed on probation or be dismissed from the program.
6. Pass/Fail Option: Each student may take up to one elective course unit on a Pass/Fail basis each semester. Pass grades will be excluded from individual GPA calculations. Fail grades will be included. Courses taken Pass/Fail cannot be counted towards MBA majors. (Please note that courses which may only be taken on a Pass/Fail basis, such as MGMT 656 (GIP) and MGMT 891 (offered in conjunction with CPT), do not count toward the one credit unit limit for Pass/Fail courses.)
7. Students who withdraw from courses after the semester has begun will receive a grade of "Withdrawn" (W) under the following circumstances. The MBA Program has two drop deadlines, the drop/add deadline and the final day to drop deadline. If a course is at capacity as of the drop/add deadline, then withdrawing from a course after that date will warrant a "W" on the transcript for holding a seat that a classmate may have used. Withdrawing from a course after the final day to drop deadline, will warrant a "W" on the transcript and the course unit will be counted towards the 21 CU maximum course load. Students cannot withdraw from a course once the last class session has begun.
8. Re-grade requests: Students who believe that there are errors in the grading of an assignment, exam, or any other course component may request that their instructor re-grade that component. These requests should be made as soon as possible and must comply with the requirements and time limits set by the course instructor. If the student is unable to resolve the matter with the instructor, the student may raise the matter only with the department chair. Please note, it is within the exclusive province of the instructor to exercise academic judgment in relation to their course and the chair cannot simply substitute their judgment for the academic judgment of the instructor. Students should be aware that, because of the cumulative GPA limit, a change in one student's grade can affect another student's grade.

Academic Performance Standards

Minimum academic standards are maintained in the following manner:

A. Academic Probation

A student will be placed on academic probation upon reaching any one of the following conditions: (1) receive two grades of F in any grading period or (2) have a semester Wharton GPA that is less than 2.67 in any of the first three semesters. Students placed on probation as a result of their performance in a given semester will be removed from academic probation when they do not satisfy either of the conditions for probation in a subsequent semester.

Once a student is notified, they are required to meet with their academic adviser within two weeks and develop a plan to succeed. This includes reviewing the course load, the balance between non-academic and academic activities, as well as other personal interest and needs. The student's plan must be in writing. Failure to develop a plan within two weeks after being notified may result in a course registration hold, a suspension of school-sanctioned leadership roles, or a limit on career management services.

B. Dismissal

Any of the following academic conditions will lead to dismissal from the MBA program during or at the end of the first year: (1) receiving three grades of F in any grading period or in any two contiguous grading periods during the first year; (2) receiving two grades of F while on academic probation during the first year; (3) having a semester Wharton GPA that is less than or equal to 2.33 for both semesters of the first year; or (4) having 5 CU of Wharton courses with a grade less than or equal to 2.33 (C+ or lower) at the end of the first year. In addition, a student will be dismissed if they fail to meet the second-year graduation requirements within the allotted time frame, which is discussed in (c).

C. (c) Second-year Graduation Requirement

In order to graduate, students must satisfy the following requirements during their second year in the program: (1) maintain a Wharton GPA that is greater than 2.33 in each semester of their second year, and (2) have no more than 4 CU of Wharton courses with a grade less than or equal to 2.33 (C+ or lower) in their second year. Students who fail to satisfy the second-year graduation requirements must successfully complete remedial work as determined by the relevant Program Office in conjunction with the MBA Executive Committee in order to graduate. Students who do not complete the remedial work within the time frame established by the relevant Program Office in conjunction with the MBA Executive Committee will be dismissed from the MBA program.

D. Appeal

A student who is dismissed from the program for academic or other reasons, may appeal the decision by writing to the Chair of the MBA Executive Committee within seven days of receiving the notice. Upon receipt of the request, the committee will convene a hearing and give the student seven days advance notice. All MBA Executive Committee decisions are final. There is no further appellate body.

E. Definitions

The Wharton GPA is based on the letter grades received in Wharton MBA courses. Thus, the GPA reflected on the transcript may not equal the Wharton GPA as the transcript GPA reflects all coursework taken at the University of Pennsylvania. A grading period may be a quarter or a semester. Contiguous grading periods are those immediately adjacent to each other. A semester refers to fall and spring semesters. The two summer terms combined shall be considered a semester if the student carries a full-time course load in the summer. Students are considered to be in their first year through the end of their first two full-time semesters in the MBA program. Lauder students and three-year JD/MBA students are considered to be in their first year through the end of their first three full-time semesters, including their first summer term and the subsequent two semesters of full-time residency.

Leave of Absence

If you need to interrupt the normal two-year course of study in the MBA Program for Executives Program, you must request a leave of absence by writing a letter to the Director of the MBA Program for Executives stating the reason for the request and the length of the expected absence. Depending on the circumstances, a leave of absence may be granted for a term or a full academic year. The Program office only grants leave to students in good academic standing. The Program office handles requests for extension of the leave on a case-by-case basis. The maximum total duration for a leave of absence from the MBA Program is five years.

Wharton MBA Code of Ethics

Members of the Wharton community are expected to uphold the highest ethical standards. The MBA student body has articulated the following guidelines, approved by vote in the Spring of 1989, amended by vote in the Spring of 2005.

Preamble

The mission of the Wharton School Graduate Division Code of Ethics (“Code”) is to promote the growth of ethically responsible business managers at the Graduate Division of the Wharton School (“Wharton”) through adherence to the highest standards of academic integrity and overall ethical conduct, to develop a sense of individual responsibility on the part of each member of the Wharton community to participate actively in maintaining such standards, to foster an environment of honor and trust within the Wharton community, and to engender respect for the ethical standards of the Wharton graduate. Fulfilling this mission is a collective responsibility of the members of the Wharton community.

While representing himself or herself as a member of the Wharton community, the Wharton student will maintain the highest standards of honesty and integrity. The student will strive for these standards in his or her representations, academic pursuits, and respect for the property and individual rights of others; will uphold the specific principles described in the Code; and will actively support the Code. Standing in the Wharton community will be subject to adherence to these basic principles of ethics.

The Code will be administered and maintained by a Wharton Graduate Division Ethics Committee (“Ethics Committee”), comprised of students chosen to represent their colleagues. Administration of the Code is subject to review by the Graduate Division Administrators and the Wharton Faculty according to the procedures indicated below.

SPECIFIC STANDARDS

Representations

The Wharton student is expected to represent himself or herself honestly in all oral or written statements. The student will not misrepresent any material fact to other students, faculty, staff, prospective employer, or anyone else while representing himself or herself as a member of the Wharton community, especially through, but not limited to:

- Lying to prospective employers, either directly through oral or written statements or indirectly through misrepresentation of background in resume;
- Misrepresenting any material fact on a Wharton application, financial aid form, or other official document;
- Lying to a fellow student, a faculty member, or an administrator in order to gain preferential treatment; or
- Misrepresenting the originality of one’s work, including failure to cite the contributions of another (plagiarism)

Academic Pursuits

The Wharton student is expected to represent his or her academic product honestly and fairly. The student will not use any dishonest method to gain an unfair advantage over other students in academic pursuits, especially through, but not limited to:

- Giving or receiving any unauthorized aid on an assignment or exam, including working in groups on any assignment that has been designated as individual by the professor;
- Failure to comply with the academic guidelines established by the instructor for assignments;
- Continuing to write after time has been called on an exam; or

- Submitting for credit substantially the same work done for another assignment either academic or professional, except with prior approval of the instructor. In the absence of clear guidelines regarding an assignment, presentation, examination, or other academic submission, the Wharton MBA student is expected to seek any and all necessary clarification from the instructor.

Property

The Wharton student is expected to respect the materials, data, and property of other members of the Wharton community and visitors to the Wharton School. The student will not misuse or misappropriate the materials, data, or other property of another, especially through, but not limited to:

- Accessing, removing, or destroying any information, materials, or other property from another student's or student organization's premises, locker, computer files or mail folder without prior permission;
- Accessing or removing without prior permission, or hiding or destroying any corporate records, files, job postings, or academic materials from the library, the Career Management Office, or any other administrative office;
- Divulging or distributing proprietary or confidentially provided information obtained for class assignments; or
- Utilizing for commercial gain any material provided to Wharton specifically and restrictively for educational purposes without prior permission of the provider.

Individual Rights

The Wharton community is committed to an environment free from discrimination and harassment of any kind. The Wharton student is expected to respect the individual rights of others. Specifically, Wharton students will observe the University of Pennsylvania policies against harassment and discrimination. Any complaint of a violation of these policies brought to the attention of the Ethics Committee will be referred to the appropriate body of original jurisdiction within the University.

STANDING IN THE COMMUNITY

A student who accepts and adheres to the standards discussed above will remain in good ethical standing within the Wharton community. If a student fails to adhere to the Code, the student may be sanctioned only with respect to his or her relationship with the Graduate Division of the Wharton School. Any sanction will be enacted upon the recommendation of the Ethics Committee at the discretion and action of the Vice Dean of the Wharton Graduate Division ("Vice Dean") or his/her designate ("designate").

Any sanction must bear a reasonable relationship to the severity of the breach involved. Appropriate sanctions include but are not limited to the following: Letter of Reprimand, Probation, Suspension, and Expulsion; in addition, the Ethics Committee may also recommend grade modification or exclusion from specified extracurricular activities.

If the final determination in a hearing under the Code is in favor of the accused, no record of the complaint or of the related hearing will be made in the official file of the student as maintained by the Wharton Graduate Division. The Vice Dean or designate will render a written decision on the recommendations of the committee in a timely fashion.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE CODE

Composition of the Ethics Committee

The Ethics Committee will comprise no fewer than nine and no more than eighteen Wharton MBA students elected by the Wharton MBA student body. Nominations for these positions will be accepted from MBA students in the form of a statement of intent submitted to the Ethics Committee. The sitting Ethics Committee will determine the rules for the election and reserves the right to reject any statement of intent that fails to meet their established requirements. Candidates who receive the most votes in a vote open to all Wharton MBA students will constitute the new Ethics Committee. The Ethics Committee will select an appropriate number of Ethics Liaisons (“liaisons”) from the matriculating first-year class during their first semester. These liaisons will assist the Ethics Committee in fulfilling its responsibilities including fostering awareness of ethical issues in the marketplace, promoting education about the Code, the Ethics Committee, and the Ethics curriculum to the greater Wharton community, and performing other roles designated by the Ethics Committee as appropriate. The liaisons are not members of the committee and shall not sit for hearings under any circumstances.

The Ethics Committee shall also elect from among its members two co-Chairpersons, a minimum of one Code Advocate, and any other officers the Committee deems necessary to carry out its responsibilities. These officers of the Committee shall execute the responsibilities articulated by the Procedures of the MBA Code of Ethics (“Procedures”), and any other duties delegated to them by the Committee at large.

Responsibilities of the Ethics Committee

The Ethics Committee will be responsible for hearing complaints under the Code. Five members of the Ethics Committee will sit for a hearing, with the Code Advocate serving to investigate the complaint and present any evidence. Hearings will be conducted according to procedures maintained by the Ethics Committee and available to all students upon request.

The Ethics Committee is also responsible for promulgating the standards specified in the Code, for encouraging responsible conduct by Wharton students, for acting as liaison to the Wharton Faculty and administration on matters related to the Code, and for developing any necessary modifications of the Code. Any changes to the Code must be approved by a majority of those voting in a special referendum open to all Wharton MBA students.

Hearings are not intended to be juridical in nature. The committee will determine how and where intent and state-of-mind fit into the proceedings at its discretion.

Complaints

Any member of the Wharton community wishing to complain of a breach of the Code may submit their complaint in writing to:

- Any member of the Ethics Committee, or
- The Wharton School’s Graduate Division.

Complaints may be filed anonymously. All contacts between the complainant(s) and the Ethics Committee will be held in confidence according to the procedures of the Ethics Committee.

Appeals

Any student sanctioned under the Code by the Vice Dean or designate at the recommendation of the Ethic Committee may appeal to the MBA Executive Committee. A request for the hearing of an appeal must be made to the Chairman of the MBA Executive Committee within seven days of the Vice Dean’s decision; if the MBA Executive Committee refuses to hear the appeal, then the decision of the Vice Dean will stand. The MBA Executive Committee will conduct all hearings according to its own procedures.

All students matriculating in the Graduate Division must comply with the standards set forth in the MBA Code of Ethics and the Policies on Conduct of the University of Pennsylvania.

Cases involving issues related to academic integrity and educational pursuits of MBA students, where the incident relates to the activity of the Graduate Division, are to be resolved pursuant to the provisions of the MBA Code of Ethics.

Complaints involving the conduct of any MBA candidate from the Wharton School may be considered by the committee. Other cases involving issues related to conduct are to be resolved pursuant to the published University of Pennsylvania policies and procedures. If the MBA Ethics Committee feels a case is beyond its jurisdiction, it will refer the matter to the University Office of Student Conduct. Procedures used in cases related to conduct are set forth in the Charter of the University of Pennsylvania Student Disciplinary System.

 Late fees of 1.5% of amount due will be assessed to your student account if payment is not received by the payment due date and if a loan application is submitted after the deadline.*

INVOICES & RECEIPTS

Invoices will be provided one month prior to the tuition due date. Company-specific invoices can be provided upon student request. It is the student's responsibility to make sure the MBA Program for Executives office has current personal or company information for billing purposes.

Receipts will be provided upon request for all company and personal checks. In addition, receipts also can be requested to reflect financial aid disbursements. If you have specific invoice or receipt requirements for company reimbursement, contact your program office.

PAYMENT PROCEDURES AND FINANCIAL HOLD

The University must receive the FULL amount due on or before the due date indicated on the invoice. Failure to make payments will result in a student being placed on Financial Hold, which prohibits that student from beginning new courses for the upcoming term until the payment has been made. Non-payment of tuition will prevent students from registering for future terms and late charges will be assessed. A student's diploma and transcript will be withheld if any outstanding balance is due to the University at the end of the program.

Electronic Payment from your U.S. Checking or Savings Account

Visit <https://sfs.upenn.edu/billing-payment/wire-transfer> for more information.

You can also use Penn.Pay to pay with your credit card. Currently Visa, American Express, Discover, and MasterCard are accepted. Please note, there is a 2.85% convenience fee when paying by credit card.

Important - If you elect to pay your tuition electronically, please let your program office know when the payment has been sent.

In Person/By Mail

If you prefer to send a check in the mail, please make it payable to “The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania.” Include the student's full name and 8-digit Penn I.D. number on the check. Please mail your payment to:

University of Pennsylvania
Student Accounts
Franklin Building, Room 221
3451 Walnut Street
Philadelphia, PA 19104

Please Remember

- If paying online, make payment at least three days prior to the bill due date.
- If paying by mail, make payment at least five days prior to the bill due date.
- Make your check payable to: “Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania.”
- Wire transfer directions will be provided as requested.
- Do not send cash.

Late Payment Penalties

If full payment is not received by the due date, a late payment penalty of 1.5% of the amount past due will be assessed, and future registration and continuing enrollment will be jeopardized.

CANCELLATION AND REFUNDS

You may cancel your contract to attend, and withdraw from, the Wharton MBA Program for Executives by submitting notice of cancellation by mail, fax or deliver a signed and dated copy of this cancellation notice or any other written notice to:

Mauro Guillen
Wharton MBA Program for Executives
The Wharton School
Steinberg Conference Center, Suite 108
255 South 38th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19104-6340

Phone: (215) 898-5887, Fax: (215) 898-2598

The Wharton School shall refund 100% of the amount paid for institutional charges, less a reasonable deposit or application fee not to exceed two hundred fifty dollars ($250), if notice of cancellation is made through attendance at the first-class session, or the seventh day after enrollment, whichever is later.

In addition, the Student may withdraw from a course after instruction has started and receive a pro rata refund for the unused portion of the tuition and other refundable charges if the student has completed 60% or less of the instruction for the academic term.

Withdrawal from Wharton School may be effectuated by the student's written notice or by the student's conduct, including, but not necessarily limited to, a student's lack of attendance.

Refunds will be paid within 30 days following the school's receipt of your cancellation notice.

Upon cancellation, if the school gave you any materials, you must return the materials within 30 days of the date you signed a cancellation notice, if requested. If you do not return the materials within this 30 day period, the school may keep an amount out of what you paid that equals the cost of the materials. The total amount charged for each item of materials shall be separately stated. The amount charged for each item of materials shall not exceed the materials' fair market value. The institution shall have the burden of proof to establish the materials' fair market value. The school is required to refund any amount over that as provided above, and you may keep the materials.

Financing Your MBA

Wharton encourages you to discuss your financial options with Wharton Financial Aid to select the financial resources that best fit your needs. Understand that most students rely on multiple funding sources; financing options typically include personal resources, educational loans, external scholarships and sponsorships. If a student obtains a loan to pay for an educational program, the student will have to repay the full amount of the loan plus interest, less the amount of any refund, and that, if the student receives federal student financial aid funds, the student is entitled to a refund of the monies not paid from federal financial aid funds.

As an MBA is a long-term investment, most students rely on loans to cover some or all of their education or living costs. Students typically borrow from one or several loan programs, and you have the right to select the educational loan provider of your choice.

Wharton does not endorse any specific lender nor receive compensation from any lender, and we encourage students to compare the fees and terms of all student loan products to determine which ones are best suited to their individual needs. Information on loan programs and links to loan applications are available on the Student Financial Services website. For more information about policies and practices, including required disclosures, regarding any form of financial aid, please visit Student Financial Services <http://www.srfs.upenn.edu/>. For information about Graduate/Professional School Financial Aid Recipients from the University of Pennsylvania, please visit: <https://srfs.upenn.edu/publications>.

Loans

U.S. CITIZEN/PERMANENT RESIDENT STUDENTS

Listed below are the current loan offerings for U.S. citizens and U.S. permanent residents.

Federal Direct and Direct Grad PLUS Loans

Federal student loans available to graduate/professional students are all unsubsidized loans. Direct Unsubsidized loans will accrue interest while you are in school.

Federal Direct and Direct GRAD PLUS Loans offer fixed interest rates, low fees, favorable repayment benefits, ease of application and electronic disbursement of funds directly to your student account. Both loan programs require the completion of the Federal Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

Private Alternative Loans

Several private lenders and other financial institutions offer education loans to students. These loans are referred to as private alternative loans.

Private alternative loans are not subsidized, and generally have tiered and fixed interest rates and fees, both based on your credit score. In addition, cosigners may be required. Unlike Federal Direct and Grad PLUS loans, private loans do not have an income-based cap on monthly repayments. Therefore, Penn encourages U.S. citizens and permanent residents to first consider the Federal Direct and Direct Grad PLUS loan programs when they need to borrow. Review a comparison of Grad PLUS and private alternative loans on the Student Financial Services website. <https://srfs.upenn.edu/financial-aid/loans>

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

If you are an international student who is neither a dual U.S. citizen nor a U.S. permanent resident, we encourage you to investigate all sources of funding within your home country, including government and private scholarships and loans.

Wharton is pleased to announce a new partnership with Quorum Federal Credit Union that will provide a non-cosigned loan product for incoming international students. This loan program does not require a U.S. cosigner, and specific information on this program will be made available after students are admitted. Some U.S. banks will also permit international students to borrow through them provided the student has a creditworthy U.S. citizen cosigner.

Note 1: International students planning to borrow through the International Loan Program with Quorum Federal Credit Union will be limited to borrowing up to 80% of the cost-of-attendance budget minus any other financial aid.

Note 2 (OFAC Sanctions): In accordance with mandatory federal regulatory guidelines, students from the United States Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Assets (OFAC) sanctioned countries are not eligible for the private education line of credit through Quorum Federal Credit Union. If you are an applicant from these countries, please complete a thorough search of funding opportunities to help you with the cost of attendance at Wharton.

International Student and Scholar Services Upholding the University of Pennsylvania's commitment to shape the next generation of global leaders is core to the mission of the International Student and Scholar Services (ISSS) at <https://global.upenn.edu/issv>. ISSS oversees services for the University's students, faculty and professional staff, including expert advice on US visa processing and immigration. It provides guidance to departments and student groups regarding cross-cultural and intercultural issues through workshops and educational programs and initiatives. ISSS also coordinates and spearheads the International Student Advisory Board (ISAB), International Partners Outreach Group (IPOG), the International Student Table for Advocacy and Relations (ISTAR), and the Intercultural Leadership Program (ILP). ISSS' general number is (215) 898-4661. ISSS is located at 3701 Chestnut Street, Suite 1W Philadelphia, PA 19104. ISSS also helps students who need to change their visa status or handle immigration issues.

University Policies and Resources

It is critical to remember that students of the Wharton School are part of the larger University of Pennsylvania community. As a community of scholars, the University depends upon mutual trust among its members, their fundamental respect for the rights, dignity, and the worth of others, their support for basic principles of free and open expression, and their abiding commitment to the highest levels of quality and integrity of academic work. These University expectations are embodied in the Non-Discrimination Statement, the Statement on General Conduct, the Racial and Sexual Harassment Policies, the Guidelines on Open Expression, and the Code of Academic Integrity. In addition to these documents, the University has issued other policies, guidelines, and procedures to make explicit the expectations of the students, faculty, administrators, teaching assistants, advisors, coaches, and support staff in dealing with one another. These documents are available through the University Penn Book at <https://catalog.upenn.edu/pennbook/>. These published statements outline basic expectations for behavior on campus and thus pertain to students at the Wharton School. Additional regulations, requirements and procedures of the Wharton School are spelled out in this publication as well as in periodic academic bulletins.

POLICIES

Non-Discrimination Statement

The University of Pennsylvania values diversity and seeks talented students, faculty and staff from diverse backgrounds. The University of Pennsylvania does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class status in the administration of its admissions, financial aid, educational or athletic programs, or other University-administered programs or in its employment practices. Questions or complaints regarding this policy should be directed to the Executive Director of the Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Programs, Sansom Place East, 3600 Chestnut Street, Suite 228, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6106; or (215) 898-6993 (Voice) or (215) 898-7803 (TDD).

Trustees Resolution Adopting a Diversity Statement

RESOLVED, that the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania adopt in principal and practice the following statement on diversity: Penn rejoices in the rich diversity of persons, groups, views, and academic disciplines and programs that grace the campus of the nation's first university. Tapping our diversity to strengthen ties across all boundaries enriches the intellectual climate and creates a more vibrant community. Fostering and nourishing this diversity, especially among students, faculty, staff, and trustees must remain central to the core missions of the University.

Office of Affirmative Action

The mission of the Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Programs is to provide central leadership and support for the University's efforts to achieve an educational and work environment that is diverse in race, ethnicity, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class status as well people of all interests, abilities and perspectives. The office will ensure the implementation of equal opportunity, affirmative action, and nondiscrimination policies through education, training and active partnership with others from the campus and the broader Philadelphia communities. The Office is at 3451 Walnut Street, Franklin Building, 4th Floor, Room 421, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6205. The telephone numbers are (215) 898-6993 (voice) and (215) 898-7803 (TDD). The website is <http://www.upenn.edu/affirm-action/>.

Title IX

As an equal opportunity educational institution and employer, the University of Pennsylvania is committed to providing learning, living and working environments that are free from discrimination on the basis of sex for students, faculty, staff, and campus visitors. Penn's Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action, Sexual Harassment and Sexual Violence, Relationship Violence and Stalking Policy, with additional guidance for students, faculty and staff, policies are among those that support the University's commitment to inclusive excellence, as part of the Office of Affirmative Action & Equal Opportunity Programs (see above for contact information) .

Grievance Procedures

Student Grievances: Federal law requires the University to designate an employee to coordinate its compliance, including the investigation of complaints with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education amendments of 1972, and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. In addition, the University is required to have procedures for the resolution of student and employee grievances alleging violations of these laws. Any student in the University who feels that he or she has been discriminated against by an individual or office acting for the University or that the University is not complying with the requirements of Title VI, Title IX, or the Rehabilitation Act, has a right to register a complaint and seek redress of his or her grievance. The student may take his/her complaint to the Office of Affirmative Action & Equal Opportunity Programs. The University outlines procedures for submitting grievances. See the Complaint Resolution website at: <https://oaaeop.upenn.edu/resources/complaint-resolution>

- Academic Grievances: Schools and academic departments within the University have established procedures for the resolution of student grievances concerning academic matters. Students should contact the Dean's Office of the particular school for a copy of the appropriate procedures and for guidance regarding the grievance process. A student who wishes to register a grievance regarding the evaluation of his/her academic work should follow the academic grievance procedure applicable in the school or department in which the academic work was performed.
- Administrative and Employment Grievances: Students with administrative grievances should contact the Office of the Vice Provost for University Life, 3611 Locust Walk, 215-898-6081. Students with grievances related to their appointment as a teaching assistant, research assistant, or graduate assistant should contact their Dean's Office or the Vice Provost for Education, 215-898-7225.
- Office of the Ombudsman: Members of the Penn community may consult the Office of the Ombuds with concerns or problems ranging from academic disputes and issues of campus life to those that are interpersonal or work-related. Anyone wishing to use the service should request an appointment by phone (215) 898-8261 or through the Office's website, <https://ombuds.upenn.edu/>. The University Ombuds is Dr. Jennifer Pinto-Martin and the Deputy Waged Jafer. The office is located at 113 Duhring Wing, 236 S. 34th St. Philadelphia, PA 19104-6273, in an annex to the Fine Arts Library. In order to protect confidentiality, the Office of the Ombuds conducts its business in person and over the telephone but not by email.
- Office of the Vice Provost for University Life: The Division of the Vice Provost for University Life (VPUL) is the foremost provider of student support services to the Penn community. VPUL's mission supports the four tenets of the Penn Compact: increased access; integrative knowledge; and local and global engagement through the following core services: access, achievement and equity programs; campus resource centers; civic engagement initiatives; facility and administrative services; health and wellness programs; and student activities and VPUL facility and administrative services that reach all 23,000 Penn undergraduate, graduate, and professional students as well as thousands of faculty, staff, alumni, and community members. The Office of the Vice Provost for University Life is located at 3611 Locust Walk, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6222. The telephone number is (215) 898-6081, and the website is <https://www.vpul.upenn.edu/>.

CORE COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

ACCT 6130 (1.0 cu)

Fundamentals of Financial and Managerial Accounting

This course provides an introduction to both financial and managerial accounting, and emphasizes the analysis and evaluation of accounting information as part of the managerial processes of planning, decision-making, and control. A large aspect of the course covers the fundamentals of financial accounting.

The objective is to provide a basic overview of financial accounting, including basic accounting concepts and principles, as well as the structure of the income statement, balance sheet, and statement of cash flows. The course also introduces elements of managerial accounting and emphasizes the development and use of accounting information for internal decisions. Topics include cost behavior and analysis, product and service costing, and relevant costs for internal decision-making. This course is recommended for students who will be using accounting information for managing manufacturing and service operations, controlling costs, and making strategic decisions, as well as those going into general consulting or thinking of starting their own businesses. (Summer 2024)

FNCE 6110 (1.0 cu) * Flexible

Core Corporate Finance

This course serves as an introduction to business finance (corporate financial management and investments) for both non-majors and majors preparing for upper-level course work. The primary objective is to provide a framework, concepts, and tools for analyzing financial decisions based on fundamental principles of modern financial theory. The approach is rigorous and analytical. Topics covered include discounted cash flow techniques; corporate capital budgeting and valuation; investment decisions under uncertainty; capital asset pricing; options; and market efficiency. The course will also analyze corporate financial policy, including capital structure, cost of capital, dividend policy, and related issues. Additional topics will differ according to individual instructors.

Prerequisites: ACCT 611, MGEC 611/612 and STAT 613 prerequisite or concurrent. (Spring 2025)

FNCE 6130 (1.0 cu)

Macroeconomics and the Global Economic Environment

The purpose of FNCE 6130 is to train students to think systematically about the current state of the economy and macroeconomic policy, and to be able to evaluate the economic environment within which business and financial decisions are made. The course emphasizes the use of economic theory to understand the workings of financial markets and the operation and impact of government policies.

Specifically, the course studies the determinants of the level of national income, employment, investment, interest rates, the supply of money, inflation, exchange rates, and the formulation and operation of stabilization policies.

Prerequisites: Introductory knowledge of economics is strongly recommended, either through a college-level economics course or private reading. The course materials, while starting at a basic level, rapidly progress so that the bulk of the analysis is conducted at an intermediate to advanced level; the range of topics covered is also quite extensive. Suggested texts for private study: (1) Parkin, Economics, Addison Wesley, (2) Samuelson and Nordhaus, Economics, McGraw-Hill, (3) Mankiw, Principles of Macroeconomics, Dryden. You should emphasize the macroeconomic parts of these books, but the rudimentary parts of microeconomic concepts of supply and demand, price determination, and market clearing, etc., should also be covered. (Fall 2024)

Core Corporate Finance

This course serves as an introduction to corporate investments for non-majors. The primary objective is to provide a framework, concepts, and tools for analyzing financial decisions based on fundamental principles of modern financial theory. The approach is rigorous and analytical. Topics covered include discounted cash flow techniques, corporate capital budgeting and valuation, investment decisions under uncertainty, and capital asset pricing. This course will not cover the following topics included in FNCE 6110, the full semester Corporate Finance course: market efficiency, corporate financial policy (including capital structure, cost of capital, dividend policy, and related issues), and options.

Prerequisites: ACCT 6110 or ACCT 6120, MGEC 6110/6120 and STAT 6130 prerequisite or concurrent (Spring

Responsibility in Global Management

This course uses the global business context to introduce students to important legal, ethical and cultural challenges they will face as business leaders. Cases and materials will address how business leaders, constrained by law and motivated to act responsibly in a global context, should analyze relevant variables to make wise decisions. Topics will include an introduction to the basic theoretical frameworks used in the analysis of ethical issues, such as right-based, consequentialist-based, and virtue-based reasoning, and conflicting interpretations of corporate responsibility. The course will include materials that introduce students to basic legal (common law vs. civil law) and normative (human rights) regimes at work in the global economy as well as sensitize them to the role of local cultural traditions in global business activity. Topics may also include such issues as comparative forms of corporate governance, bribery and corruption in global markets, human rights issues, diverse legal compliance systems, corporate responses to global poverty, global environmental responsibilities, and challenges arising when companies face conflicting ethical demands between home and local, host country mores. The pedagogy emphasizes globalized cases, exercises, and theoretical materials from the fields of legal studies, business ethics and social responsibility. (Fall 2024)

Responsibility in Business

This course introduces students to important ethical and legal challenges they will face as leaders in business. The course materials will be useful to students preparing for managerial positions that are likely to place them in advisory and/or agency roles owing duties to employers, clients, suppliers, and customers. Although coverage will vary depending on instructor, the focus of the course will be on developing skills in ethical and legal analyses that can assist managers as they make both individual-level and firm-level decisions about the responsible courses of action when duties, loyalties, rules, norms, and interests are in conflict. For example, the rules of insider trading may form the basis for lessons in some sections. Group assignments, role-plays, and case studies may, at the instructor's discretion, be used to help illustrate the basic theoretical frameworks. Course materials will highlight industry codes and professional norms, as well as the importance of personal and/or religious values. Format: class participation, quiz, group report, and final paper or exam. Materials: coursepack. Prerequisites: none. (Fall 2024)

Microeconomics for Managers: Foundations

This course establishes the micro-economic foundations for understanding business decision-making. The course will cover consumer theory and market demand under full information, production theory and economic (and opportunity) cost, pricing strategies in competitive and monopoly markets, sophisticated pricing strategies with segmented markets using price discrimination and bundling, sophisticated pricing strategies of a single consumer using two-part tariffs, and decision-making under uncertainty. This course is immediately followed by Microeconomics for Managers: Advanced Applications (MGEC 612). (Summer 2024)

MGEC 6120 (0.5 cu)

Microeconomics for Managers: Advanced Applications

This course will cover the economic foundations of business strategy and decision-making in market environments with less than full information. Topics include game theoretic approach to market strategies with application to market creation and protection, auction theory and application, strategies for managing risk including the value of information, moral hazard and principle-agent theory with application to incentive contracts, asymmetric information and signaling strategies, public goods and externalities within and between firms, and the management of interdependencies through cooperative behavior or politics. (Summer 2024)

Foundations of Teamwork and Leadership

At every level of an organization, teamwork and leadership are required for organizational success. Teamwork and leadership have always been critical to society, but they have acquired new significance in recent years during this era of heightened uncertainty, restructuring, and change. The tenor of leadership has changed as well. Many organizations are flattening their hierarchies and building work teams, with “command and control” leadership giving way to facilitation and empowerment. This course focuses on developing your knowledge and skill set for teamwork and leadership. (Summer 2024)

Marketing Management

This course addresses how to design and implement the best combination of marketing efforts to carry out a firm’s strategy in its target markets. Specifically, this course seeks to develop the student’s (1) understanding of how the firm can benefit by creating and delivering value to its customers, and stakeholders, and (2) skills in applying the analytical concepts and tools of marketing to such decisions as segmentation and targeting, branding, pricing, distribution, and promotion. (Fall 2024)

MKTG 6130 (0.5 cu)

Marketing Management: Strategy

In common with Marketing 6110, the primary objective of this course is to introduce you to the concepts and theories underlying marketing decision-making. MKTG 6130 builds upon MKTG 6110 with a stronger emphasis on the strategic considerations that drive and integrate the mix. Principal topics include resource allocation, market entry/exit decisions, and competitive analysis. In addition to a mix of cases and lectures, the course relies on a comprehensive computer simulation game that helps highlight these issues and provides the class with a rich set of realistic examples for discussion and analysis. This game allows students to appreciate the real power and value of marketing concepts, develop a disciplined approach to the analysis of marketing situations, and to further enhance their abilities to communicate and interact with peers in solving problems. Managing the Enterprise

A general manager needs to understand the internal workings of a firm, how to assess and create a strategy, and how to take into account increasing globalization. While these issues are distinct, they are very much intertwined. The first part of the course will deal with fundamental issues of strategy, examining issues central to the long- and short-term competitive position of an enterprise.

The second part of the course stresses the fact that organizational life is built around a complex interplay of social forces. The third part of the course stresses the deep and persistent cross-national differences in economic, political and social institutions that affect the strategy, social structure, performance and value of organizations. Managing the Productive Core of the Firm: Quality and Productivity

Matching supply with demand is an enormous challenge for firms: excess supply is too costly, inadequate supply irritates customers. In the course, we will explore how firms can better organize their operations so that they more effectively align their supply with the demand for their products and services. Throughout, we illustrate mathematical analysis applied to real operational challenges—we seek rigor and relevance. Our aim is to provide both tactical knowledge and high-level insights needed by general managers and management consultants. We will demonstrate that companies can use and have used the principles from this course to significantly enhance their competitiveness. (Spring 2025 SF)

OIDD 6150 (0.5 cu)

Managing the Productive Core: Operations Strategy

Operations strategy is about organizing people and resources to gain a competitive advantage in the delivery of products (both goods and services) to customers. This course approaches this challenge primarily from two perspectives: 1) how should a firm design its products so that they can be profitably offered; 2) how can a firm best organize and acquire resources to deliver its portfolio of products to customers? To be able to make intelligent decisions regarding these high-level choices, this course also provides a foundation of analytical methods. These methods give students a conceptual framework for understanding the linkage between how a firm manages its supply and how well that supply matches the firm’s resulting demand. Specific course topics include designing service systems, managing inventory and product variety, capacity planning, approaches to sourcing and supplier management, constructing global supply chains, managing sustainability initiatives, and revenue management. This course emphasizes both quantitative tools and qualitative frameworks. Neither is more important than the other. (Spring 2025)

STAT 6130 (1.0 cu)

Regression Analysis for Business

This course provides the fundamental methods of statistical analysis, the art and science of extracting information from data. The course will begin with a focus on the basic elements of exploratory data analysis, probability theory and statistic inference. With this as a foundation, it will proceed to explore the use of the key statistical methodology known as regression analysis for solving business problems, such as the prediction of future sales and the response of the market to price changes. The use of regression diagnostics and various graphical displays supplement the basic numerical summaries and provide insight into the validity of the models. Specific important topics covered include least squares estimation, residuals and outliers, tests and confidence intervals, correlation and autocorrelation, collinearity, and randomization. The presentation relies upon computer software for most of the needed calculations, and the resulting style focuses on construction of models, interpretation of results, and critical evaluation of assumptions. WHCP 6140 (0.25 cu)

Management Communication

WHCP 614 is designed to prepare business leaders for the communication challenges of the workplace. In this seminar-style course, students will learn the essentials of persuasion, gain confidence in public speaking, and receive individualized feedback from instructors and peers. The course enables students to develop and demonstrate effective, business-oriented communication skills, regardless of their skill level when they start the course. (Fall 2024 SF)

WHCP 6190 (0.25 cu)

Management Communication: Advanced Persuasion

This course builds on the skills developed in WHCP6140 Management Communication with a focus on the tools and techniques of advanced persuasion for business leaders. This course follows the seminar-style of the first Management Communication course, and allows students choice of content and speaking topics. (Fall 2024 SF)

GLOBAL MODULAR COURSES (GMC) (0.5 cu)

Wharton's Global Modular Courses (GMCs) transport undergraduate, full-time MBA and MBA Program for Executives students beyond Wharton's Philadelphia and San Francisco classrooms to offer an opportunity to get truly involved in learning material pertinent to a particular geographic region around the world. The idea of the GMCs is to expose students to a unique combination of local immersion, course concepts and emerging business issues. The topics and locations of these courses are chosen to give students first-hand exposure to business challenges and opportunities in regions undergoing rapid change. The cities and courses will vary and availability is limited, dependent on your term schedules and course capacity. Second-year MBA Program for Executives students will receive priority in courses with enrollment limitations, unless otherwise noted. GMCs are typically offered in December and March, during University Winter and Spring Break times, and a limited number may also be offered in May. Students may not miss any time in an on-campus course to attend a course held off campus, including Global Modular Courses. Students who knowingly register for courses that create a scheduling conflict or who schedule travel that results in missed class time may be dropped from the course that creates the conflict and denied future modular courses. Failure to attend all class sessions may have negative repercussions on grades as well. This may limit a student's ability to enroll in these global courses depending on the academic calendar for their class. The worldwide COVID-19 pandemic has disrupted the amount and type of travel available. Information about GMC opportunities will be available in the Fall semester.

GLOBAL BUSINESS WEEK (GBW) (0.5 cu)

Students will travel overseas as part of the MBA Program for Executives in the second year. Students will choose from a set of courses and destinations determined by faculty. These courses will allow the student a greater understanding of the topic by studying it outside of Philadelphia or San Francisco. The experience provides students insight into doing business in a multinational context and through the eyes of another culture. Attendance on the trip is required. In extreme circumstances, such as the imminent or very recent birth of a child, the student may make up this requirement by taking a future course that involves global travel and a similar learning objective. That may need to be the GBW in the following year and cause a delay in graduation. The worldwide COVID-19 pandemic has disrupted the amount and type of travel available. When we approach the second year more information will be shared about the ability to travel and alternatives available.

Scheduled Class Sessions per the Academic Calendar

The MBA Program for Executives is a lockstep/cohort-based program. Students enroll in the six-term program which commences in May (Summer term) each year. Due to the year-round nature of the program, academic terms in the MBA Program for Executives may not align directly with the academic calendar of the University of Pennsylvania.

Students in good academic standing are automatically enrolled in each term by the Class Director.
